FOSTER GRANDPARENT/SENIOR COMPANION PROGRAMS

There is so much that senior citizens have to offer, especially to those in need of positive and caring role models. Depending on your skills, life experience and interests, there are multiple ways for seniors to get involved.

The Senior Companion Program allows volunteers to work with fellow seniors in an effort to assist them to maintain their independent living situation. This program's main focus is on those members of our communities who have developmental disabilities and special needs. It is incredible what friendship with ones' peers can do to foster independence and self-sufficiency.

For senior citizens who are interested in working with children, the Foster Grandparent Program provides an invaluable service to schools and families across New Mexico. Senior volunteers work to help children develop the skills, confidence and strength to succeed in life. These volunteers, under the guidance of teachers and administrators, pass on the skills they have learned as they mentor children of all ages.
